PARTNERSHIP WORKING AGREEMENT FOR EMPLOYABILITY

PURPOSE
Through the National Performance Framework, both Scottish Government and Scottish Local Government have set out their shared ambitions in developing a Fairer Scotland. We agree that sustainable and fair employment is a critical aspect of inclusive growth and the main route out of poverty, inequality and disadvantage. Job creation, and accessible, sustainable and fair employment are critical to ensure that everyone who can is able to reach their full potential by participating successfully in the Scottish labour market.

Overall, the Scottish Labour Market is healthy with historically high employment and low unemployment. However, we know local labour markets differ significantly and that there are still difficulties for a number of people and groups being able to access and sustain employment. To support more people into work, we must ensure that local and national level services place the person at the front and centre of both design and delivery. We must collectively identify and agree opportunities for better alignment and joining up of local and national service delivery. We must also ensure that our approach drives greater levels of collaboration and is flexible enough to adapt to changing priorities over time.

No One Left Behind was published in March 2018 and sets out the next steps for alignment and integration of employability support in Scotland. In doing so, it sets out six objectives:

- A system that provides flexible and person-centred support;
- is more straightforward for people to navigate;
- is better integrated and aligned with other services, in particular, although not exclusively with health provision;
- provides pathways into sustainable and fair work;
- is driven by evidence, including data and the experience of users; and
- that supports more people – particularly those facing multiple barriers – to move into the right job, at the right time.

To achieve these objectives we need a collective approach to employability where the Scottish Government and the Convention of Scottish Local Authorities (COSLA) work in partnership to positively shape employability provision nationally and to deliver it locally. We will work with key partners, including the third sector and other employability providers as well as the vulnerable in our communities, to redesign services so that the people we collectively serve are better placed to realise their potential, better able to find ways into paid work and to reduce both dependency and inequality.

This partnership working framework sets out the terms of engagement and working relationship between Scottish Government and Scottish Local Government on employability. It will build on existing and effective partnership working for employability and establishes a commitment towards good practice in the way we will work together. The framework will be kept under review and be flexible and agile as the labour market in Scotland evolves over time.
The Scottish Government Public Service Reform agenda and the local governance review outlines our joint ambition to collaboratively deliver services which are “effective, efficient and represent value for money for Scotland as a whole”. In this spirit, we will work together to develop an approach based on mutual openness, transparency and respect.

PRINCIPLES
Scottish Government and Scottish Local Government agree to a set of core principles to support the collaborative working that will underpin the Partnership Working Framework for Employability and which sit at the core of the relationship between Scottish Local Government and the Scottish Government in Employability. These are:

- Placing people at the centre of the design and delivery of coherent and seamless employability services;
- Working together openly, transparently and constructively in pursuit of our shared aims and objectives and ensure mechanisms are in place for regular, strong, two-way communication;
- Delivering excellent public services and value for money by avoiding duplication and complexity in provision and aligning services to make them seamless, coherent and accessible;
- Developing agreed national and local outcomes and measurement approaches utilising appropriate research, sectoral skills requirements and primary sources of information;
- Reflecting and respecting existing governance and accountabilities within both Scottish Local Government and Scottish Government, briefing each other on matters of mutual interest;
- Exploring opportunities for future co-investment; co-design and shared performance management;
- Collaboratively building on existing local and regional employability partnerships to share and align activities and priorities including partners in the broader public and third sectors; and
- Recognising and building on the strengths of local delivery and good practice around programmes, delivery models and approaches.
