Help with Jobs and Training

Clackmannanshire Works is the Council's employability service. It helps local people who are looking to get into work and assists local businesses to develop and support local people with jobs and training.

Since it started in 2008, Clackmannanshire Works which is part-funded by the European Social Fund (ESF), has supported thousands of local people. These can be young people leaving school who are seeking work experience or apprenticeships as well as unemployed adults of working age who need support with getting into work.

David's Happy in Hospitality

David was looking for support with jobsearch skills and a change of career when he registered with Clackmannanshire Works. Previously, David had worked in a variety of customer service roles in the retail and care sectors but was finding it hard to get another job.

David's Key Worker at Clackmannanshire Works helped him improve his employability skills by developing his CV and supporting him to apply for jobs. He also undertook a number of certificated training courses in Emergency First Aid, Health & Safety and Customer Service, which helped him consider a career in the hospitality sector.

Following a short period of voluntary work experience in the bar and restaurant service at Inglewood House Hotel and Spa, David discovered he really enjoyed this type of work. With the support of the Clackmannanshire Works Employer ESF Recruitment Incentive, the hotel was able to offer David a job which he was delighted to accept. David is now a valued and respected member of the team at Inglewood House Hotel and Spa.
